At IMIYOO Jewelry, we want your experience on our website to be smooth, secure, and easy to navigate.

Like many online stores, our website uses cookies and similar technologies to support certain features and help us understand how our website works.

This Cookie Policy explains what these technologies are, why we use them, and how you can manage your preferences.

1. What Are Cookies?

Cookies are small text files that websites can store on your device when you visit them.

They help websites remember certain information, such as items in your shopping cart or your preferences during a visit.

Some cookies are temporary and disappear when you close your browser. Others may remain on your device for a longer period, depending on their purpose and settings.

Websites may also use similar technologies, such as local storage or tracking pixels, to support website features or collect information about website interactions.

2. How We Use Cookies

Depending on the website features and services in use, cookies may serve different purposes.

Essential Cookies

These cookies help our website function properly and support basic services.

For example, they may help with:

- Remembering items in your shopping cart
- Supporting checkout and order processing
- Maintaining login sessions when account features are used
- Protecting our website against security threats and fraudulent activity
- Keeping certain website functions working as expected

Essential cookies support services you request and may be necessary for shopping and checkout.

Functional Cookies

Functional cookies may help remember certain choices or settings to make your next visit more convenient.

Depending on the features available, these could include website display preferences or other settings you've selected.

Analytics & Performance Cookies

If analytics services are enabled, these cookies or similar technologies may help us understand how visitors use our website.

For example, they may provide information about which pages are visited, how visitors navigate between pages, or whether certain features are working as intended.

This information can help us identify technical issues and improve the shopping experience.

Marketing Cookies

If marketing or advertising technologies are used on our website, they may help measure promotional activities or understand interactions with relevant content.

Some third-party advertising technologies may also be used to recognize visitors across websites.

Where required by applicable law, we'll provide the necessary information and choices before using non-essential tracking technologies.

3. Cookies From Third-Party Services

Some website features are supported by third-party technology providers.

For example, our online store uses WooCommerce for shopping functionality, and our website uses services such as Cloudflare for website infrastructure and security.

Certain features of these services may use cookies to support shopping sessions, security checks, or other essential functions.

Payment providers may also use cookies or similar technologies when you interact with their payment services.

Other third-party technologies, if enabled, may have their own cookie and privacy practices.

We encourage you to review the relevant provider's privacy information when using third-party services.

4. Managing Your Cookie Preferences

We believe you should have clear information about the technologies used when you visit our website.

Where applicable law requires consent for non-essential cookies, we'll ask for that consent before enabling the relevant technologies.

If cookie preference controls are available on our website, you can use them to manage the options provided.

You can also manage or delete cookies through your web browser settings.

Most browsers allow you to:

- View and delete stored cookies
- Block cookies from particular websites
- Limit or block certain third-party cookies
- Adjust how cookies are handled in the future

Please keep in mind that disabling certain cookies may affect website functions, including the shopping cart, checkout, or account login.

Browser cookie settings do not necessarily replace other privacy choices or rights available under applicable law. For information about your personal information rights, please see our Privacy Policy.

5. How Long Cookies Remain on Your Device

The length of time a cookie stays on your device depends on its purpose and how it is configured.

Session cookies are generally removed when your browsing session ends.

Persistent cookies may remain until they expire or are deleted through your browser settings.

Different website services may use different expiration periods.

The specific cookies and their duration depend on the technologies and settings in use.

6. Cookies & Personal Information

Some cookies and similar technologies may collect or be associated with information such as your IP address, device information, browser type, or website activity.

Depending on the circumstances and applicable law, this information may be considered personal information.

We handle personal information in accordance with our Privacy Policy and applicable legal requirements.

7. Updates to This Cookie Policy

We may update this Cookie Policy from time to time to reflect changes in our website, technology services, or applicable legal requirements.

When we make changes, we'll update the date at the top of this page.

Where required by law, we'll provide additional notice or request consent for changes involving relevant tracking technologies.

We encourage you to review this page occasionally.
